MEET THE SPEAKERS

Lionel Shriver

A prolific journalist with a fortnightly column in The Spectator, Lionel Shriver has written widely for the New York Times, the Guardian, the London Times, Prospect, the Financial Times, Harper's Magazine, UnHerd, Spiked, and many other publications. Her first nonfiction book, "Abominations: Selected Essays from a Career of Courting Self-destruction," was published in 2022. She regards the fetishization of transgenderism as an ominously decadent form of societal derangement.

Michael Shellenberger - Civilization Works

Michael Shellenberger, a Time Magazine "Hero of the Environment" and Green Book Award winner, is the Founder-President of Environmental Progress and Public, and holds the C.B.R. Chair of Politics, Censorship, and Free Speech at the University of Austin. He is a best-selling author, known for works like "San Fransicko: Why Progressives Ruin Cities" and "Apocalypse Never: Why Environmental Alarmism Hurts Us All." Shellenberger has earned recognition for breaking major stories, including the Twitter Files, and regularly testifies before U.S. Congress on issues related to free speech, censorship, and environmental policy.

Kathleen Stock - The Lesbian Project and Unherd

Kathleen Stock is a contributing writer at UnHerd, a co-director of The Lesbian Project, and the author of 'Material Girls: Why Reality Matters for Feminism' (Little, Brown 2021). Until 2021, she was a Professor of Philosophy at Sussex University and has written for UK national newspapers on a range of issues, especially on sex, gender, and women's rights. In 2023, she was shortlisted for Columnist of the Year by the British Society of Magazine Editors; in 2024, for Tabloid Columnist of the Year at the Press Awards; and in 2022, she was voted World's Top Thinker by Prospect Magazine. She was awarded an OBE for services to higher education in 2020.

Dr. Peter Boghossian - National Progress Alliance

Dr. Peter Boghossian is a Founding Faculty member at the University of Austin and the Executive Director of the National Progress Alliance. With over 25 years of teaching experience in the Socratic method, scientific skepticism, and critical thinking, his dissertation focused on enhancing moral reasoning among prison inmates and aiding their resistance to crime. Boghossian is the author of "How to Have Impossible Conversations," and his work appears in major publications like The New York Times and The Wall Street Journal. His efforts aim to apply philosophical tools in various contexts to tackle complex problems.

Helen Joyce - Sex Matters

Helen Joyce is the author of 'TRANS: When Ideology Meets Reality,' a 2021 book that was recently reissued as 'Trans: Gender Identity and the New Battle for Women's Rights.' This book has been highly acclaimed and best-selling. Formerly a senior editor at The Economist, she now directs advocacy for Sex Matters, a human rights organization focused on sex-based rights. Holding a PhD in mathematics, Helen also writes a column for The Critic and runs a subscription newsletter available on her website, thehelenjoyce.com.

Andrew Doyle

Andrew Doyle is a broadcaster, writer, and comedian. He is the author of 'Free Speech and Why It Matters' and 'The New Puritans: How the Religion of Social Justice Captured the Western World.' He created the satirical character Titania McGrath, whose show 'Mxnifesto' ran at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe and at the Duchess Theatre in London's West End. He is also the author of 'Woke: A Guide to Social Justice' and 'My First Little Book of Intersectional Activism.' He presents 'Free Speech Nation' and 'Headliners' on GB News.

Julie Bindel - The Lesbian Project

Julie Bindel is a journalist, author, and feminist campaigner against male violence towards women and girls. She has been targeted by trans activists since she first wrote about the issue of men in women's spaces in 2004.

Dr. Frank Furedi

Dr. Frank Furedi is an emeritus professor of sociology at the University of Kent and the Executive Director of MCC Brussels, a think tank. He has authored over 26 books focusing on cultural developments in Western societies, including the impact of Culture Wars on family life and education. His notable works, such as 'The Culture of Fear' and 'How Fear Works,' explore the dynamics of risk and fear in contemporary society. His recent book, '100 Years of Identity Crisis,' discusses how socialization disruptions affect young people and the generational divide.

Andrew Gold - heretics

Andrew Gold is a journalist, author, and YouTuber specializing in cults and extreme ideologies. He will discuss the cultish elements of gender ideology. Fluent in five languages, he has produced and presented documentaries for the BBC and HBO.

Eliza Mondegreen

Eliza Mondegreen is a graduate student researching how online trans communities address questions and doubts regarding trans identity, transition, and detransition.

Susan Evans

Susan Evans, a Psychoanalytic Psychotherapist and retired Clinical Nurse Specialist, is a Senior Fellow at the University of East London and a former staff member at GIDS, Tavistock. She voiced concerns about medicalized approaches to child gender identity as early as 2005 and initiated a Judicial Review with Mrs. A and Keira Bell in 2019. Now in private practice, she specializes in treating children, young adults, and families dealing with gender identity issues. Susan co-authored 'Gender Dysphoria: A Therapeutic Model for Working with Children, Adolescents, and Young Adults' with Marcus Evans.

Marcus Evans

Marcus Evans is a psychoanalyst who worked as a psychiatric nurse and an adult psychotherapist for 40 years before retiring from the NHS. He was a founding member of the Fitzjohn's Service for the treatment of patients with severe and enduring mental health issues and personality disorders. He is the author of three books: 'Making Room for Madness in Mental Health,' 'Psychoanalytic Thinking in Mental Health Settings,' and 'Gender Dysphoria: A Therapeutic Model for Working with Children, Adolescents, and Young Adults,' which he co-authored with his wife, Susan Evans.

Laura Becker

Laura Becker is a detransitioner, author, and artist who speaks internationally about her experiences with transition, detransition, and the broader psychology of gender issues affecting young people. Her memoir, 'Quirky Not Queer: The Detransition Journey,' is available on her website, funkypsyche.com.

Bev Jackson - LGB Alliance

Bev Jackson, a co-founder and trustee of the LGB Alliance, was a founding member of the UK Gay Liberation Front in 1970 and has supported progressive causes from anti-Apartheid to women's reproductive rights over the decades. She became alarmed by the regressive turn in the gay rights movement she had helped to establish. In 2019, she met Kate Harris, who shared similar concerns. After Stonewall UK refused to discuss these issues, Bev and Kate founded the LGB Alliance to reinvigorate the LGB rights movement.

Sarah Phillimore - We Are Fair Cop and Child Protection Resource

Sarah Phillimore, a barrister specializing in child protection law since 1999, has operated the Child Protection Resource website since 2014. In 2019, she joined the organization 'Fair Cop,' which campaigns for improved police protection of freedom of speech. Sarah is an active campaigner for the rights of women and children and firmly believes that sex is real and it matters.

Dr. Louise Irvine - CAN-SG

Dr. Louise Irvine, co-chair of the Clinical Advisory Network on Sex and Gender, has been a GP in London for 30 years and previously served as a GP trainer and local program director for GP training. An NHS campaigner and former chair of the successful Save Lewisham Hospital Campaign, Dr. Irvine now focuses on supporting clinicians who challenge the prevailing gender affirmative medicine orthodoxy. She advocates for an evidence-based approach that prioritizes harm avoidance and improved psychosocial understanding of children and vulnerable adults with gender dysphoria.

Bob Withers - Thoughtful Therapists

Bob Withers is a Jungian psychoanalyst, writer, and international lecturer with a special interest in the challenges of exploring gender-related distress psychotherapeutically. His work in the early 1990s with a male-to-female-to-male detransitioner highlighted the importance of psychoanalytic exploration before medical transition. His 2015 paper, 'The Seventh Penis: Towards Effective Psychoanalytic Work with Pre-Surgical Transsexuals,' won the Michael Fordham Prize that year.

Graham Linehan

Graham Linehan is an acclaimed Irish writer, director, and producer, renowned for creating and writing beloved sitcoms such as 'Father Ted', 'The IT Crowd', 'Black Books', and 'Count Arthur Strong'. His work, distinguished by sharp wit and unique humor, has earned him multiple BAFTA awards. He faced cancellation when he began advocating for women's rights in 2017 and currently strives to raise awareness about the dangers of gender identity ideology on his Substack, The Glinner Update. His memoir 'Tough Crowd' was published in 2023.

Chris Elston - Billboard Chris

Chris Elston, known as 'Billboard Chris,' is a Canadian activist recognized for his public advocacy on various social issues, notably concerning children's rights and gender identity discussions. He gained prominence by wearing billboards and utilizing public spaces to spark conversations and debate.

Shannon Thrace - Genspect

Shannon Thrace is a writer, cultural critic, and IT professional who lives for travel, good food, and summer music festivals. She is the author of '18 Months: A Memoir of a Marriage Lost to Gender Identity'—the story of the dissolution of her fifteen-year relationship when her husband began to identify as transgender. Find her musings on modern malaise and the crisis of modernity on her Substack.

Mia Hughes - Civilisation Works

Mia Hughes is an Ottawa-based British journalist and researcher for Michael Shellenberger's nonprofit, Environmental Progress. She is the author of the WPATH Files report, which exposed the widespread medical mistreatment of children, adolescents, and vulnerable adults in WPATH's field of gender-affirming care.

Claire Fox - Academy of Ideas

Claire Fox is the director of the Academy of Ideas, known for fostering open public debates. She founded the Battle of Ideas festival and the Debating Matters Competition. Additionally, she co-founded The Academy summer school. Claire served as an MEP for North West England before becoming Baroness Fox of Buckley in the House of Lords in 2020. She's a visiting professor at the University of Buckingham and a frequent media commentator on culture and free speech. Claire has authored books on free speech and arts funding, and writes extensively on related topics.

Emma Thomas - Children of Transitioners and the Killarney Group

Emma is the founder of the childrenoftransitioners.org website and the X account @childrenoftrans. She writes and campaigns on behalf of children of trans people, highlighting a lack of safeguarding. Her father is a transsexual who transitioned in the 1980s while he had custody of her.

Alex Capo - The Charlton School

Alex is the Executive Director of The Charlton School in Burnt Hills, New York, a therapeutic community for girls with mental health challenges. With over 25 years of experience in various therapeutic and educational settings, Alex has seen significant shifts in the school's approach. Between 2016 and 2020, The Charlton School noted a surge in trans identification among students. Initially following an affirmative approach, the school later adjusted its methods to address a broader range of student issues beyond just gender.

Christina Buttons

Christina Buttons is a liberal, science-oriented, independent journalist whose writing primarily focuses on news and research related to 'gender medicine.' She is actively conducting research on detransitioners, with the aim of publishing her findings in academic journals.

Tove Solander

Tove Solander, who earned an MA in women's studies from the University of York and a PhD in English literature from Umeå University, teaches gender studies at Stockholm University. Her research has ranged from art and literature to Japanese theatre. Recently, she has focused on gender and transgender issues, employing new methodologies. She is currently working on a pilot study involving detransitioners as part of a broader Nordic project and studying the evolving definitions of gender in Swedish translation.

Sasha Ayad - Gender: A Wider Lens

Sasha Ayad, a Licensed Professional Counselor with 15 years of experience, specializes in treating adolescents facing gender identity issues. She questions the rise in teens identifying as trans and advocates for non-invasive therapy over medical transitions. Ayad co-hosts the "Gender: A Wider Lens Podcast," is a founding member of the Society for Evidence-based Gender Medicine, and has co-authored "When Kids Say They're Trans," a guide for parents, emphasizing a psychological approach to gender dysphoria.

Dr. Julia Mason - SEGM

Dr. Julia Mason, a pediatrician with over 30 years of experience and a focus on pediatric gender medicine for the past five years, is a founding board member of the Society for Evidence-based Gender Medicine (SEGM) and an advisor to Genspect. She will discuss the complexities of brain development during adolescence and young adulthood, emphasizing how normal developmental phases can lead troubled youth towards risky decisions, particularly regarding gender development and irreversible body modifications.

Rosie Kay - K2CO, the Rosie Kay Company

Rosie Kay (BA Hons, FRSA), trained at the London Contemporary Dance School, founded the Rosie Kay Dance Company in 2004 and later K2CO in 2022. Her notable works include 'Romeo + Juliet' (2021) and '5 SOLDIERS' (2010-present), which explore military themes. She choreographed for the Commonwealth Games Handover Ceremony (2018) and 'Sunshine on Leith' (2013). Kay has received awards such as Best Independent Company (2015) and co-founded Freedom in the Arts (FITA) to promote freedom of expression. Her research focuses on the role of the body in military and pop culture.

Dr. Kristopher Kaliebe

Dr. Kristopher Kaliebe, MD, is a Professor of Psychiatry at the University of South Florida, Tampa, specializing in Psychiatry, Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, and Forensic Psychiatry. A Distinguished Fellow of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, he works primarily in university clinics, health centers, and juvenile corrections. Dr. Kaliebe teaches across multiple psychiatry programs at USF and has published extensively on topics such as digital technologies, gender, psychotherapy, and nutrition in mental health. He is concerned about naive interventionism in medicine.

Dr. Stephen B. Levine

Dr. Stephen Levine, a Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, has been writing articles on transgender youth care for the last seven years. Most recently, he has published works on the comprehensive psychiatric evaluation of these patients and their parents.

Jaco van Zyl - Critical Therapy Antidote

Jaco van Zyl (MA, ClinPsych.), a clinical psychologist and psychoanalytic psychotherapist originally from South Africa and now based in Ireland, specializes in group psychology, trauma-spectrum disorders, and mood disorders. His work, influenced by South Africa's political history, explores group dynamics and ideologies. He has published research on conversion therapy and contributes to Merion West and Psychodynamic Practice. Van Zyl co-hosts the Critical Therapy Antidote Podcast, discussing current ideological and psychological trends.

Dr. Colin Wright - Manhattan Institute and the Killarney Group

Dr. Colin Wright is an evolutionary biologist and a fellow at the Manhattan Institute. He also serves as an academic advisor for the Society for Evidence-based Gender Medicine and is a member of The Killarney Group think tank. Since 2018, he has written about sex and gender issues for publications such as the Wall Street Journal and Newsweek, and has appeared on TV shows and podcasts, including The Joe Rogan Experience and Tucker Carlson Tonight.

Lynn Chadwick - Themis Resource Fund

Lynn Chadwick worked in neonatal intensive care as a registered nurse for 28 years. As the mother of two trans-identified children, she has navigated the pain of estrangement and currently advocates for parents of ROGD kids within several organizations.

Jude Hunter - Genspect AusNZ

Jude Hunter, a Commerce and Business graduate and mother of five, was alarmed by the quick prescription of testosterone for her daughter by Australian doctors without considering her mental health. She has spent over five years researching the societal impact of gender ideology and its harm to young people. Advocating for a trauma-informed approach, Jude lobbied for a Parliamentary Inquiry into Australia's gender affirmation model, which faced significant opposition.

Jennifer Lahl - The Center for Bioethics, Culture Nature and Genspect USA

Jennifer Lahl, founder of the Center for Bioethics and Culture, has 20 years of experience in pediatric nursing and hospital administration. She specializes in the intersection of science, technology, and medicine, particularly in assisted reproductive technologies. An award-winning filmmaker, Lahl has produced 11 documentaries, including three on transgender issues, one of which is 'The Lost Boys: Searching for Manhood.' Her book, 'The Detransition Diaries,' tied to her film 'The Detransition Diaries: Saving Our Sisters,' is now available.

Emelie Köhler – The Trans Train and Detransinfo

Emelie Köhler is a detransitioned woman from Sweden. She first appeared in the documentary series 'The Trans Train' and has since become a public figure in Swedish media, raising criticism around gender ideology and the medicalization of gender dysphoria. She administers the website Detransinfo.se and is working to build an advocacy network consisting of others who have been harmed by gender ideology. Emelie will discuss her own experience and what she believes is crucial for us to focus on when helping young people seeking assistance for gender dysphoria.

Mattias Desmet

Mattias Desmet, a leading expert on mass formation theory related to COVID-19, is a clinical psychology professor at Ghent University, Belgium, and a practicing psychotherapist. His work, featured in Forbes, The New York Post, and Fox News, includes over a hundred peer-reviewed papers and several books. Desmet has received significant accolades, including the Evidence-Based Psychoanalytic Case Study Prize and the Wim Trijsburg Prize from the Dutch Association of Psychotherapy.

Dr. Jan Macvarish – Free Speech Union

Dr. Jan Macvarish is the Education and Events Director of the Free Speech Union (FSU), a non-partisan group founded by journalist Toby Young in 2020 that has grown to nearly fourteen thousand members with a 70% success rate in casework. Previously, she was a sociologist at the University of Kent and Birkbeck, University of London, specializing in interpersonal relationships, parenting, and family dynamics. She authored 'Neuroparenting: The Expert Invasion of Family Life' and co-authored 'Parenting Culture Studies'.

Jesper Rasmussen

Jesper Waldvogel Rasmussen, chairman of the Danish Rainbow Council and a vocal critic of gender ideology, began his advocacy five years ago due to concerns about Denmark's health system. In 2022, he co-founded the Council, setting 12 political goals and actively challenging gender policies in Denmark. The organization quickly became influential and has expanded into Norway and Iceland, creating the Nordic Rainbow Council.

Carrie D. Mendoza - Genspect USA

Dr. Carrie D. Mendoza, MD, Director of Genspect US and an Emergency Medicine physician with over 20 years of experience in various hospital settings, treats a range of conditions from snakebites to gunshot wounds to COVID-19. She brings a critical perspective on how healthcare bureaucracy can propagate harmful policies. Dr. Mendoza will discuss her insights from the opioid epidemic to shed light on the medicalization of gender ideology and strategies to mitigate its adverse effects.

Stella O'Malley - Genspect

Stella O'Malley is the founder and director of Genspect. She first became well-known for her work in gender issues with the 2018 documentary, 'Trans Kids: It's Time To Talk.' Moved by how many families were impacted by gender dysphoria, Stella founded the Gender Dysphoria Support Network to help parents access appropriate support. Alongside Sasha Ayad, Stella co-hosts the popular podcast 'Gender: A Wider Lens,' and is also the co-author of 'When Kids Say They're Trans: A Guide for Thoughtful Parents.'

Genspect Supports

The Gender Dysphoria Support Network (GDSN) is an international group that supports families of individuals affected by gender dysphoria. GDSN offers support groups where relatives and friends can share experiences and resolve common challenges. The main goal is to help families impacted by gender dysphoria through regular meetings that provide information, understanding, and encouragement. Small group settings ensure everyone has a chance to speak.

Launched in June 2022 by Genspect, Beyond Trans provides funding for therapeutic support for people who have been harmed by medical transition, including support for desisters, detransitioners, and disenchanting trans individuals. Beyond Trans services include a directory of therapists who prioritize a non-medical pathway for gender dysphoria; funding for one-to-one counseling; therapeutic support groups; life skills courses; and informational webinars.

Stats for Gender is a resource created by Genspect to provide accurate and reliable data about gender-related issues. It aims to counter the widespread misinformation by offering clear, well-categorized, and jargon-free statistics and facts. Stats for Gender helps parents, professionals, and individuals questioning their gender to access trustworthy information, ensuring informed decision-making and a broader understanding of gender dynamics.

Themis is an organization that connects detransitioned plaintiffs in the United States with attorneys who are willing to take their cases, helping them fund litigation to seek compensation for injuries resulting from affirmative gender treatment. Working in alliance with Genspect, Themis relies on and welcomes donations to support its mission. Themis is recognized as a 501(c)(3) tax-exempt public charity.

Parents with Inconvenient Truths about Trans (PITT) is a platform where parents share their first-hand experiences with gender ideology. The site publishes stories daily (Monday to Friday) and sends a weekly recap of essays along with other media recommendations every Saturday. PITT welcomes global contributions and encourages parents to submit their stories via Pitt@genspect.org.

"Gender: A Wider Lens" is a podcast hosted by therapists Stella O'Malley and Sasha Ayad, now in its fourth year. The podcast explores psychological and cultural forces behind gender social changes through interviews with researchers, doctors, therapists, parents, detransitioners, and more. Stella and Sasha offer insightful discussions, making the podcast essential for understanding today's gender issues. Notable guests include Helen Joyce, Jesse Singal, Leor Sapir, Kathleen Stock, Jamie Reed, and Peter Boghossian.
